ABOUT THIS EDITION

ତିନୋଟି ଛୋଟ ଗପ

A little room. A quiet game. A tiny sound.

Original character source: Snigdha Nayak's Gudul-Gudli serial. These three new scripts were developed separately and are not attributed to her. The scenes sit outside the original serial's chronology. Artwork is project development work.

Prepared from the selected finished local editions on 15 October 2026. The Odia wording, panel order and artwork selections are unchanged. No new illustration was generated for this PDF.

The original scripts, source references and panel crops are included in the attached collection record. The font copyright and license are included as an attachment. PDF viewers that support attachments can open these files.

Screen reading edition. Physical print colours have not been calibrated. The existing artwork and language-review limits remain those of the source editions; independent human/native-editor approval is not claimed.

Concept and creative direction: Ahimanikya Satapathy

READING TOGETHER

Three moments to notice

01 Room for One More

Gudli notices what is blocking Elin. A small change makes room for everyone, including the parrot's tail.

02 Who Moved?

The cloth moves first. The friends break their poses, while Elin keeps resting.

03 Drip, Tap!

Listen for the drip and the answer. Leave a pause in panel 5 before the bird takes its turn.
